What is Forex Trading ?

Forex, short for foreign exchange, is the global marketplace for trading currencies.

Forex trading involves buying and selling currencies on the foreign exchange market to profit from changes in exchange rates. Traders speculate on currency pairs, using leverage to amplify potential returns. The forex market operates 24 hours a day, 5 days a week, offering high liquidity and global access.

Example:

If you anticipate that gold prices will rise, you might buy XAU/USD. If the price of gold increases, you can sell your position for a profit. Conversely, if you expect gold prices to fall, you might sell XAU/USD and buy it back at a lower price.

What Is AI Robot Trade ? & How we Generate Profit ?

AI robot trade refers to using artificial intelligence programs to automate buying and selling in financial markets.

How we Generate Profit ?

How we generate profit: The AI robots analyze market data to identify trends and trading opportunities. They execute trades automatically, leveraging fast decision-making and continuous operation to capitalize on price changes and trends, aiming to maximize returns and manage risks efficiently.

What is Pool Trading ?

In Forex, pool trading means combining the money from multiple investors into a single fund. This pooled money is then used to make trades in the foreign exchange market, aiming to achieve better returns and spread out risks. A professional manager usually handles the trading for the group.
